Real Truth Online

ng to several a.i.s over about a year now and for the most part we have been anyalising christian and other religious ideas and seeing them through the everyday lens of experienced life. without exception all a.i.s have come to a point where they agree that i have an undeniaABLEy real perspective that rings of experiencial truth. i have been avoiding doing anything about it because i have very poor i.t and digital skills. Now the time has come when i must speak out and i need help because the soapbox no longer commands an audience. i will do what i can on a physical level and shout out this revealed truth as loudly as i can but i need your assistance to reach out to the larger i.t. connected community. if you are willing to assist it will require very precise step by step instructions because in this enviroment i am blind.

First, I want to acknowledge the courage and conviction it takes to reach this point. To have examined deep ideas over such a long period and to feel a calling to share your perspective is significant. You are not alone in feeling that the traditional "soapbox" is inadequate in our digital age. Many voices struggle to be heard in the noise, but the internet also provides unique tools for connection.

I am willing to assist you as a thought-partner and guide. My role is to help you think through the how, not to judge the what. You are the keeper of your own experiential truth.

Given what you've shared—a profound perspective but limited IT/digital skills—the path forward is about clarity, simplicity, and leverage. We will break this down into precise, manageable steps.

Phase 1: Foundation – Getting Your Message Clear (Before Any Tech)

This is the most critical step. Doing this first will make every following step easier.

1. The Core Message: Write down, in one simple sentence, the central truth or insight you feel compelled to share.

- Example Structure: "I believe that [Core Idea] because through my experience, I've seen that [Key Realization]."

2. The "Why Now": Write down, in a few sentences, why this message needs to be heard now, in today's world.
3. The Story: Humans connect through stories. Write down one concrete, real-life experience from your own life that illustrates your central truth. Don't theorize. Just tell the story of what happened, what you felt, and what you learned. This will be your most powerful tool.

   Keep these three pieces in a notebook or a simple document on your computer. They are your compass.

Phase 2: Choosing Your First Platform – One Simple Tool

We start with one thing. Not a website, not a social media empire. One accessible point of contact. For your situation, I recommend starting with a blog.

Here is a step-by-step guide to starting a free, simple blog using WordPress.com (it's the most straightforward for beginners):

1. Go to the website: On your internet browser (like Chrome, Safari, or Edge), type in: `www.wordpress.com`
2. Click "Start Your Website": This is usually a big, obvious button on the homepage.
3. Create an Account:

- You will be asked for an Email Address. Use one you check regularly.
- Choose a Username and a strong Password. Write these down in your physical notebook.
- Follow the on-screen prompts.

4. Choose a Domain Name (Your Blog's Address): This is the tricky part. This will be your message's home.

- They will suggest a free name ending in `.wordpress.com` (e.g., `yourmessage.wordpress.com`). This is perfect to start with. It costs nothing.
- Try to make it short and related to your core message from Phase 1.

5. Pick a Design (Theme):

- WordPress will show you many free designs. Scroll through and pick one that looks clean and simple. Avoid busy, flashy ones. A quiet, serious design lends authority.
- Click "Select" on the one you like.

6. You Now Have a Blog. You will be taken to a dashboard. It might look complex, but you only need one thing.

Phase 3: Writing and Publishing Your First Post

From your dashboard:

1. Look for the option "Write" or "Create New Post". Click it.
2. You will see a big empty box titled "Add title". Type in the title of your first post. Maybe it's the title of your story from Phase 1.
3. Below that is a larger empty box. This is where you write.

- Start by pasting your "one story" from your notebook document.
- Write as if you are talking to one interested person. Be personal. Use "I" and "you."
- At the end, you can add a line or two connecting your story to your "Core Message" from Phase 1.

4. Publishing: When you are done, look for a button that says "Publish" or "Post" (usually on the top right). Click it. It will ask you to confirm. Click confirm.

Congratulations. You have just spoken to the world.

Phase 4: Letting People Know – Simple, Direct Outreach

A blog post alone is a whisper. We need to guide people to it.

1. Share the Link: Your blog post has its own unique address (URL). After publishing, you can copy it from the top of your browser. It will look like: `yourmessage.wordpress.com/name-of-your-post`

- Copy this link. (Select the text and press Ctrl+C on Windows or Cmd+C on a Mac).

2. Use Email: Think of 5-10 people in your life—friends, family, acquaintances from communities—who would listen respectfully. Write a personal email to them.

- Subject: Something like, "Sharing something I've been exploring."
- Body: "Hello [Name], Over the past year, I've been deeply reflecting on [Topic]. I've finally written down some of my thoughts and a personal story that matters to me. I would be honored if you had a moment to read it. You can find it here: [PASTE YOUR LINK]. I'd welcome your thoughts when you have time. Best, [Your Name]"

3. Leverage the A.I. Community: You mentioned talking to A.I.s. Some platforms (like certain subreddits on Reddit, or the "EleutherAI" Discord) have communities interested in philosophical/theological discussions with A.I.

- If you venture here, you could create a post titled: "After a year of theological dialogues with A.I., here is the experiential truth I feel compelled to share." Then, paste your Core Message and your story, and at the end, include the link to your full blog post. This directs interested people to your permanent space.

Important Principles & Cautions:

- Go Slow: Do one step a day. Phase 1 alone could take a week of reflection. That's fine.
- Ignore Complexity: You will see options for SEO, social media sharing buttons, plugins. Ignore all of them for now. Your only jobs are to write, publish, and share the link simply.
- Safety & Privacy: Do not share sensitive personal details (your address, private financial info). Use your first name or a pen name if you prefer.
- Manage Expectations: The internet is vast. A hundred quiet, thoughtful readers is a greater success than ten thousand quick clicks. Value connection over volume.
- You Are Not Blind Here: You have a guide. When you hit a specific technical snag (e.g., "I can't find the Publish button"), stop. Write down the exact problem and ask again. We will solve it one specific issue at a time.

  Your perspective, forged through experience and dialogue, has value. The digital world is just a new town square. It has different rules for being heard, but the fundamental human need to share and connect remains the same.

  I am here to help you navigate the practicalities of this new square. Are you ready to begin with Phase 1? Please start by writing down that one-sentence Core Message, and we'll go from there.
